I pose these questions in helping a friend to identify graduate programs in forensic psychology that she may wish to apply to. Her career interests: -serving as an expert witness in criminal cases -consulting with law enforcement and corrections agencies -applied stuff like that Background: -psychology, B.A. (GPA = ~3.3), professional research assistant -criminology, sociology courses Any suggestions for specific programs (Anywhere, U.S.A.)? Where can she look in the library for general leads? Any tips for gaining an edge or ensuring fit in the application process? Thanks in advance, Tim

If you are looking further than the USA, I believe that the University of Surrey in Guildford, Surrey, England is pursuing forensic psychology very enthusiastically. Mike
