Howdy All I have a unique student who is looking for an MA program in cross-cultural psychology focusing on Arab cultures. She is one of our top students. She also speaks Arabic and has lived in two different Arab countries: 9 years growing up in Saudi, and last semester studying in Jordan. But we can't seem to find an MA program that deals with cross-cultural psych with Arab countries. I can't believe these don't exist, so I'm tapping into y'all. Again, she can't do a PhD at this time (although she could return later to finish), and she must be able to complete with thesis in 18 months (oh, and she'll get a scholarship from us and not need any pay).
