
future uk Britain Loves Wikipedia - podcast and upcoming behind-the-scenes events

Posted by Michael Peel - 2010/02/17 22:18

Hi all, (apologies for the cross-posting and UK-specificness) The Hunterian have just released a mini-podcast about Britain Loves Wikipedia - you can see it at: <http://www.hunterian.gla.ac.uk/whatson/wiki/wikipedia-at-the-hunterian.shtml> We also have lots of events coming up in the next week and a bit across the UK: - Saturday 13 February - Manchester Museum - Sunday 14 February - East Lothian museums - Tuesday 16 February - Mill Green Museum - Wednesday 17 February - The Hunterian Museum - Thursday 18 February - Bedford Museum - Saturday 20 February - British Postal Museum's store All of these events are offering something more than the usual access to the museum - you can get behind the scenes and see (and photograph) things that you normally wouldn't be able to. This is a great opportunity to get photographs of objects for Wikipedia that you wouldn't normally be able to. Oh, and you can also win prizes! Full details are on the Britain Loves Wikipedia website - <http://britainloveswikipedia.org/> BTW, I'm hoping that we can organize more things like this in the future, at different museums throughout the UK - but that can only happen if these events are well attended. ;-) Thanks, Mike Peel Wikimedia UK

Wikimedia UK mailing list wikimediauk...@wikimedia.org
<http://mail.wikimedia.org/mailman/listinfo/wikimediauk-l> WMUK: <http://uk.wikimedia.org>

future uk Britain Loves Wikipedia - podcast and upcoming behind-the-scenes events

Posted by Bod Notbod - 2010/02/17 22:18

We also have lots of events coming up in the next week and a bit across the UK: - Saturday 13 February - Manchester Museum - Sunday 14 February - East Lothian museums... Feel I should mention at this opportunity that there's a Wikipedia London meet on Sunday 14th too. <http://meta.wikimedia.org/wiki/Meetup/London/30>

Wikimedia UK mailing list wikimediauk...@wikimedia.org
<http://mail.wikimedia.org/mailman/listinfo/wikimediauk-l> WMUK: <http://uk.wikimedia.org>

future uk Britain Loves Wikipedia - podcast and upcoming behind-the-scenes events

Posted by Michael Peel - 2010/02/17 22:18

(apologies for the cross-posting and UK-specificness) The Hunterian have just released a mini-podcast about Britain Loves Wikipedia - you can see it at: <http://www.hunterian.gla.ac.uk/whatson/wiki/wikipedia-at-the-hunterian.shtml> We also have lots of events coming up in the next week and a bit across the UK: - Saturday 13 February - Manchester Museum - Sunday 14 February - East Lothian museums - Tuesday 16 February - Mill Green Museum - Wednesday 17 February - The Hunterian Museum - Thursday 18 February - Bedford Museum - Saturday 20 February - British Postal Museum's store All of these events are offering something more than the usual access to the museum - you can get behind the scenes and see (and photograph) things that you normally wouldn't be able to. This is a great opportunity to get photographs of objects for Wikipedia that you wouldn't normally be able to. Oh, and you can also win prizes! Full details are on the Britain Loves Wikipedia website - <http://britainloveswikipedia.org/> BTW, I'm hoping that we can organize more things like this in the future, at different museums throughout the UK - but that can only happen if these events are well attended. ;-) Thanks, Mike Peel Wikimedia UK

Wikimedia UK mailing list wikimediauk...@wikimedia.org
<http://mail.wikimedia.org/mailman/listinfo/wikimediauk-l> WMUK: <http://uk.wikimedia.org>

Wikimedia UK mailing list wikimediauk...@wikimedia.org
<http://mail.wikimedia.org/mailman/listinfo/wikimediauk-l> WMUK: <http://uk.wikimedia.org>
